Program Application Process

For complete information on the Visual Communication application process, please review the information listed under the How to Apply section of this Web site.

WHO CAN APPLY?

The application process is open to all enrolled Chemeketa Community College students.

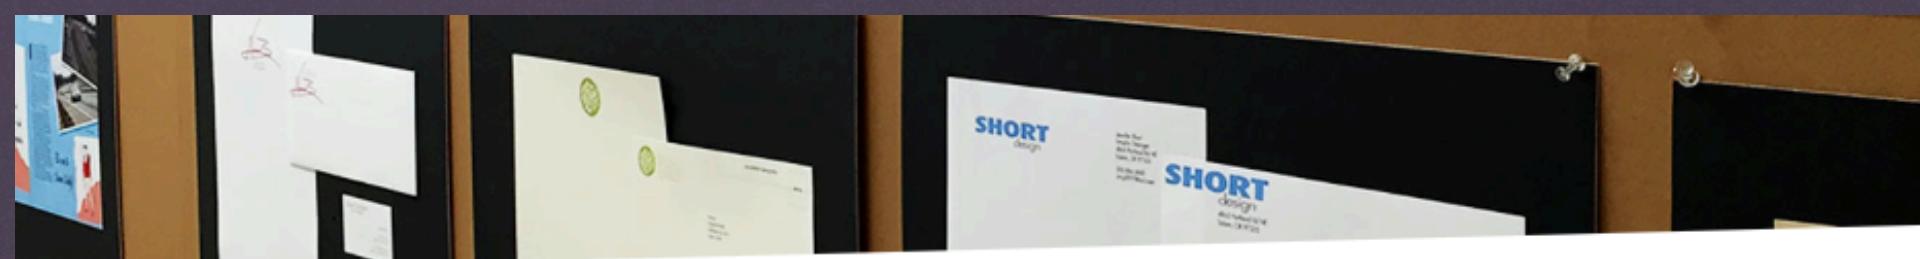

Students may begin taking art and general education classes prior to entering the program. The core courses begin in fall and must follow the program sequence. Course sequences for Graphic Design, Interactive Media, and Multimedia Arts can all be found online.

HOW MANY STUDENTS ARE ACCEPTED INTO THE PROGRAM EACH YEAR?

The program accepts up to 48 students each year, with approximately 28 open positions in the Graphic Design/Interactive Media track, and 20 in the new Multimedia Arts. The final numbers each year will vary depending on the application pool. In total, there are roughly 90 active Visual Communications students in their first, second, or third (or more) year.

DOES IT MATTER WHEN I APPLY?

Yes - applications are evaluated on a first-come/first-reviewed basis. The date and time of when an application was submitted is recorded, and applications are reviewed in that order. We do not prioritize

ASSOCIATE OF APPLIED SCIENCE DEGREE IN GRAPHIC DESIGN

Turn your creative side into a career. Take classes in design, layout, typography and earn a degree in graphic design

DEGREE OVERVIEW

The graphic design degree emphasizes ideas and creativity above all else, while also providing a firm technical foundation in software and production. Classes in design, color theory, illustration, typography, layout and software form the basis for designers as they learn to solve communications challenges. Classes take a projects-based approach to instruction, with many hands-on, practical assignments in a collaborative environment.

Students also have the opportunity to work with outside clients on live projects in the Design Studio course. Students will produce both a print and a digital portfolio of work including a personal logo, résumé and website in preparation for entering the job market.

A portfolio show, introducing you to the business community, is at the end of spring term your final year.

Refactoring UI: Component Gallery

The image displays four wireframe designs for a component gallery, each showing a different card layout:

- Single tier horizontal card layout: A single card with a horizontal list of items. The first item is labeled '$500'.
- Two-tier cards: Two cards side-by-side. The left card is labeled '$100' and the right card is labeled '$500'. Both cards contain a list of items and a dark blue button at the bottom.
- Two-tier cards with emphasized plan: Two cards side-by-side. The left card is labeled '$100' and the right card is labeled '$500'. The right card has a larger, more prominent list of items and a dark blue button at the bottom.
- Three-tier heavy featured cards with emphasized plan: Three cards side-by-side. The left card is labeled '$100', the middle card is labeled '$200', and the right card is labeled '$500'. The middle card is the most prominent, with a larger list of items and a dark blue button at the bottom.

This image shows the Figma application interface, specifically the 'Design' and 'Prototype' tabs for a project titled 'Soap Website (Copy)'. The left sidebar contains a list of components and assets, including 'Linden', 'macOS Chrome 2', and several 'Home Page' components. The main canvas displays six versions of the home page: a wireframe, a low-fidelity mockup, a high-fidelity mockup with a 'Best Sellers' section, a detailed product page for 'Natural Soap', a promotional page with a 10% discount, and a final design featuring a hand holding a bar of soap. The right sidebar shows a color palette and export options, including a color hex code (1E1E1E) and a 100% zoom level. The interface is dark-themed, and the Figma logo is visible in the bottom right corner.
